Grip is an infectious disease, which attacks weak and strong alike, especially if the blood is sluggish, and generally involving the mucous membrane of the air passages from the nostrils down to and including the lungs. Serious complications are liable to develop in the course of the disease, as grip settles in the weakest part of the system, sometimes the kidneys, the brain, the stomach or the heart, resulting often in heart failure, but the most dreaded of all is when it settles in the lungs. Consumption is sure to follow and certain death if prompt action is not taken and Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey administered.

In conversation with our canyon men who have made their living the past 30 years in Blacksmith Fork canyon, they say the early part of the week the storm drove them home, and while it was raining in the valley, the storm was fierce in the mountains, and they say the farmers have little to fear on occount of the shortage of water the oming season. While in the lower parts of the canyon there is but little snow, in the tops of the mountains the now is very deep and the ravines are full of packed snow. Especially is this the case in the white pines, and for many miles of what is known as the springs of Blacksmith Fork river.
